

COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Community groups perform an integral role in promoting and protecting cultural, environmental and social values. Integrate Sustainability provides a range of professional support and advice services to assist a variety of communities. We can work with Aboriginal people and corporations, landowners and special interest community groups to address a range of environmental, cultural heritage, safety and training issues.

We offer a range of support and advice services on a diverse range of topics, including:

- Heritage, Native Title, environment and safety legislation training and compliance.
- Assist and implement engagement strategies, promoting positive relationships and outcomes.
- Independent meeting facilitation and negotiations.
- Cross-Cultural Awareness – document development and workshop facilitation.
- Independent Heritage management, assessments, planning and peer reviews.
- Work with communities to develop cultural protocols.
- Land management strategies and community programmes.
- Grant and submission development.
- Independent environmental advice on approvals, assessments and planning.
- Facilitate peer reviews for major projects.
- Training and capacity building within communities.
- Safety support and services.
- Data management, business planning and administration support.

We understand that the needs of every community differ; therefore, we will work with you to tailor services to achieve a positive and sustainable outcome.
