

ENVIRONMENTAL AWARENESS AND EDUCATION

Environmental education is a process that allows individuals to explore environmental issues, engage in problem-solving and take action to improve the environment. Through environmental education and awareness individuals, teams and businesses can develop to influence a positive environmental culture.

Our Services include:

- Advice on environmental issues commonly experienced in the workplace and implementing appropriate solutions
- Assess knowledge and training gaps
- Dedicated sessions on specific environmental issues relevant to your workplace
- Development of environmental toolbox topics and handouts
- Generation of posters and booklets targeting a range of environmental topics
- Targeted management plans across a range of environmental areas
- Assist with the development and implementation of environmental policies and programs
- Workshops and lectures on environmental topics and management
- Targeted training sessions for non-environmental staff covering
  - key compliance requirements under environmental legislation
  - what are approvals and when might you need one
  - why we do environmental monitoring
  - sustainable practices for the workplace (recycling, waste reduction, sustainable procurement, energy use)

Successful environmental policies and programs require organisation-wide involvement, which relies on a shared understanding of the relevant environmental issues. We understand that every workplace is different. We work with clients to create educational and training material that is relevant to your needs and can achieve the required outcome.
