

ENVIRONMENTAL PRO BONO

Community conservation and environmental groups play an integral role in protecting biodiversity and natural spaces. Integrate Sustainability is committed to providing accessible environmental services to all, not just industry. We will provide up to 10 hours of pro-bono environmental work to community and not-for-profit based environmental groups in need of additional support, advice or assistance.

We can provide assistance in the following:

- Developing submissions and public comments
- Peer reviews on environmental reports, studies and approval documents
- Literature reviews and research into environmental processes, issues and solutions
- Advice on environmental legislation in WA and Australia including
 - Environmental approval processes and opportunities for public involvement
 - Highlighting obligations of proponents
- Advice on land tenure and how this may influence activities
- Review of monitoring activities, equipment requirements and costs
- Stakeholder engagement activities with proponents
- Safety management and risk assessments
- GIS and data management

Our team of environmental and sustainability specialists have over 40 years of combined experience and are passionate about sustainability and environmental stewardship. If you are a community group or not-for-profit organisation in need of environmental advice or support, please contact us to discuss your environmental concerns and how we might be able to help. When determining if Integrate Sustainability is able to assist, consideration will be given to potential conflicts of interest, support previously provided to the organisation and the support required.
